The Views at Superstition, Gold Canyon's premiere venue for elegant events, opened its doors Saturday, May 02, 2009 for the first of many special occasions to come.

For weddings, corporate events, meetings, luncheons, religious celebrations or simple get-togethers The Views at Superstition is the area's ultimate destination for your next event. Located at 6900 E Highway 60, Suite 204 in the Gold Canyon Village plaza, The Views at Superstition offers stunning panoramic views of Superstition and Dinosaur Mountain from its elegant Tuscan inspired interior. The Views at Superstition offers ample convenient parking, a nicely appointed prep kitchen, separate bride and groom suites and a spectacular 1,000 square foot balcony with fireplace overlooking the golf course and majestic Superstition Mountain.

Proprietor and event coordinator Tracy Machajewski of Apache Junction has 20 years experience in event planning and will see to it that every aspect of your special event is taken care of. The Views at Superstition has three all-inclusive, full service packages to choose from, or, they will be happy to customize a package especially for you.

"This is my passion," said Machajewski. "It's what I love to do. I am huge on customer service and am happy to work with you to exceed your expectations and make your special day all that you dreamed it would be."

The Views at Superstition offers competitive pricing and an array of services attended to by event professionals who will handle each and every detail so you are free to enjoy your special event. Clients can choose from a list of preferred professional event vendors or The Views at Superstition will gladly welcome and accommodate the vendor of your choosing.
